SKY BATTLE MARKS R.A.F. RAID ON BERLIN

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Anaylist

IF YOU'LL DRAW a circle around the European war zone and then check off on its circumference the outstanding current events, you will find you have a diagram which emphasizes the big thing in the lives of all of us—that the final showdown with Hitler is near.

Prime Minister Churchill has told Yankee air-borne troops in England that they "soon" will have the opportunity of landing in Nazi occupied Europe. His voice registered emotion as he made the declaration.

Britain's famous General Montgomery of desert fame, referring to the forthcoming invasion in a London speech, said: "We are preparing to take part in the biggest tug of war the world has ever seen...... the promised land is not so far off now."

American and British bombers have reached an unprecedented pitch of offensive fury in preparation for the invasion. In one period of 36 hours this week they dumped over 7,000 tons of death and destruction on the enemy. This intensification presages land action.

America is pouring troops and equipment into England.

Wherever you look you find Hitler feverishly preparing for this last battle. All his operations are purely defensive, even where they are counter-blows.

Stockholm reports that the Nazis are assembling shipping and landing barges in East Prussian ports. This presumably is for protection of his Baltic flank, perhaps to occupy the Finnish Ahvenanmaa islands as defense against the Russian fleet, released when the siege of Leningrad was raised.

On the blazing Russian front there's an unusual circumstance which may be significant. Berlin has been announcing Red victories ahead of the Russians. Moscow frequently is slow in reporting her triumphs, but it's quite possible Hitler is giving advance notice as a cover while he deliberately pulls back his long, unwieldy line here and there—getting ready to retreat to a new front through Poland.

DOWN IN THE BALKANS the Fuehrer is rapidly extending operations for physical control not only of Hungary but of Rumania and Bulgaria. That's all defensive. The Great Danubian gateway from Hungary into Austria, which is virtually part of his inner fortress, must be held at all costs. The Nazis' fierce resistance in Italy is to give added protection to the Hitlerian set-up in the Balkans.

Secretary of State Hull yesterday called on Hungary to resist the Ger-

Selective Service To Call Men Under 26

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The mass movement of men under 26 from jobs to battle lines was speeded today as Selective Service began calling them up for immediate physical examinations and postponed consideration of older men in order to meet the Army's demand for rigorous young fighters.

While the drastic new draft regulations were being put into operation, a dozen government agencies hurriedly gathered data on manpower needs of vital industries so that new centralized machinery for recommending deferments of men under 26 can start rolling as soon as possible.

Those two developments—swifter drafting of younger men for combat and a single inter-agency committee to help choose the relatively few who will not be taken—put some order in the over-all situation after a week of confusion.

To youths 18 through 25 holding non-agricultural job deferments—there were 365,000 at last count—the new draft regulations mean:

Subject to Immediate Call

1. They will be called for preinduction physicals right away. This may be done without taking them out of 2-A or 2-B.

2. Their classifications will be reconsidered faster than before because Hershey ordered a halt to reconsideration of men 26 and over, until each local board has gone through its list of younger men. This policy applies to all men with occupational deferments, including farm, and also to those still in 3-A by reason of dependency.

3. The expiration dates of their deferments no longer have any meaning. If a local board decides Joe Doakes, who is in 2-A, ought to be in 1-A, he goes in 1-A at once.

4. If they are found unfit for military service or fit for limited service only, their draft board can give them occupational deferments instead of putting them in 4-F or 1-L.

To men in the 26-37 age group who are in 3-A or hold job deferments, the new regulations mean a delay in reconsideration of their cases.

The armed forces are primarily interested in young men just now, but the new rules do not halt induction of men over 25 who are already in 1-A.

Look to Permanent Plan

Hershey also notified his state directors of an interim plan for recommending deferments for indisposable young men, to be used until the new inter-agency com-

Sunday To Bring General Increase In Postal Rates

Postal rates go up at midnight tonight.

A penny here and a few cents there will bring in an estimated $96,000,000 more revenue annually. The estimate is based on the premise there will be no decrease in volume as a result of the higher rates.

The out-of-town letter rate of 3 cents an ounce remains unchanged, as does the rate of 6 cents a half ounce on air mail to and from the armed forces outside the continental United States.

Here are the principal increases affecting the average mail user:

The local letter rate goes from 2 to 3 cents an ounce.

The domestic air mail rate goes from 6 to 8 cents an ounce.

Every parcel post package will require at least 1 cent more postage, the revenue act requiring an increase of 1 cent or 3 per cent, whichever is greater.

Money order rates are increased. Some examples: One cent to $2.50, 6 to 10 cents; $10.01 to $20, 13 to 22 cents.

Registration fees are increased about one-third.

Insured and C.O.D. fees are doubled.

The 2-cent-an-ounce increase in the domestic air mail rate applies to mail to Alaska and Canada.

Alaska continues to be included in the continental United States as far as civilian air mail is concerned, but outside the continental United States for mail to and from the armed forces.

CHURCHILL ON RADIO SUNDAY

Prime Minister Expected To Bolster Allies For Invasion Sacrifices

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, March 25—Prime Minister Churchill's British-American hookup broadcast Sunday night is expected here to steel the two nations for the sacrifices of the forthcoming invasion march on Berlin—more of the blood and sweat he so grimly predicted nearly four years ago, but this time bright with the confidence of Victory.

The dramatic panorama of the past fateful week for Germany affords a background for this first home broadcast by the premier since a year ago, providing material for a whole new picture of the strengthened Allied position as the hour of climax nears.

Churchill probably will take full advantage of developments in the Balkans to emphasize the collapse of the last Nazi pretense of a benevolent new order and unified European defense. Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania doubtlessly are awaiting Churchill's words for clues of their future fate.

Others will be listening as tensely—Finland for a hint of the next move after her rejection of the Soviet armistice terms, and neutral Eire for a suggestion of the extent of her isolation from the rest of the world.

There has been some editorial speculation in London that Churchill may reiterate that the Atlantic charter still embodies the underlying Allied war purposes.

But a call for a final draining effort for Victory is expected to be the keynote.

Joan's Heart-Throbbing Love Letter To Chaplin Is Read

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—A poignant and heart-throbbing love letter Joan Berry wrote to Charlie Chaplin was in the court record of his Mann act trial today, but efforts by the movie comedian's counsel to probe into her romance with another man have been blocked by Judge J. F. T. O'Connor.

Just what will be the method of approach by the defense when the trial is resumed next Tuesday was not disclosed by Jerry Giesler, Chaplin's lawyer.

"The court's ruling greatly limits our proposed defense," Giesler told newsmen. "It simply means that we cannot now go into certain phases of Miss Berry's past."

The ruling followed an attempt by Giesler to have Red-haired Joan state whether she told a man named Hans Reusch (otherwise unidentified she was broke but could get money from a man in Oklahoma because she had made a trip to Mexico with him "and there is a law against that in the United States; he can't do that."

Joan apparently won't have to answer questions about associations with any men other than Chaplin, under Judge O'Connor's decree. She completed her direct and cross-examination testimony late yesterday, but U. S. Attorney Charles H. Carr said he might recall her later.

Breaks On Stand

Joan's startled doe appearance in the witness chair quickly changed to one of placid resignatiion, and tears welled into her eyes and mascara streaked down her freckled face when Giesler began reading a letter she wrote to Chaplin Nov. 18, 1942, from Tulsa, Okla.

She hid her face from the gaze of the jury of seven women and five

SALEM RED CROSS FUND NEAR QUOTA

With the Red Cross war fund total at $31,500 today, Chairman Albert R. Hanna and workers today expressed confidence that the $32,000 goal will be met within the next few days, through belated contributions and through collections taken at local theaters.

"The community is to be complimented on reaching the goal in advance of the national March 31 deadline and well ahead of neighboring towns and cities, many of which are lagging in their drives," Hanna said.

The achievement of the community is even more remarkable in view of the fact that Salem, which has generously supported Red Cross in previous years resulting in successively higher quotas, this year was given a per capita figure of $2.00 instead of the $1.40 assigned generally. This put Salem in the quota

73 Planes Lost During Attack On Nazi City

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, March 25.—The major part of 1,000 RAF bombers fought through one of the bitterest night sky battles of the war last night and dumped 2,800 tons of bombs on Berlin in the final drive for complete obliteration of the German capital.

Seventy-three British bombers were shot down over Berlin and other targets by large forces of German fighters which the Berlin radio said started attacking the mighty RAF armada as it crossed Helgoland, in the North sea, and fought it all the way to the capital.

Germany claimed 102 bombers were shot down in the long running fight which culminated in an hour-long battle over the capital as formation after formation roared over, starting new fires in that hub of Nazidom in the 16th major RAF raid since Nov. 18.

The British Air ministry's report said Kiel also had been hit by the night raiders "along with other objectives in western Germany".

About 100 German bombers broke through London's aerial barrage to blast at the British capital's business properties, churches and dwellings with tons of incendiaries in the longest raid in 12 months. Eleven were shot down.

Follow U. S. Raids

A British announcement described Berlin as the "main objective" of night operations "in strength" over Germany. The German radio said other British bombers raided Leipzig and Wiemar.

The attacks followed daylight blows by U. S. heavy bombers against Frankfurt and Schweinfurt and the French airfields of Nancy and St. Dizier in the 19th Eighth Air Force mission in March.

Berlin was attacked by daylight Wednesday by an American armada of up to 750 Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by around 1,000 fighters. Hundreds of fires were left burning.

About 500 bombers and 500 fighters, including RAF Mustangs, took part in yesterday's daylight raids and encountered little opposition. The raids cost three bombers and five fighters. The fighters destroyed two Nazi aircraft on the ground and a third as it was taking off.

The Germans struck back at London last night with the longest raid in 12 months, burning and blasting churches, homes and business properties with tons of incendiaries. Five of an attacking force which broke through the capital's thunderous and virtually continuous barrage early today were brought down.

Many Casualties Listed

There were many casualties. The raid apparently centered on suburban districts. Towns in the home counties also were hit.

It was disclosed last night London's famed Royal Albert hall was damaged when a high explosive bomb fell nearby during a recent night raid.

A dispatch from a Flying Fortress base said escorting fighters now are doing most of the battling over Germany.

Last night's loss was the RAF's highest in its 16 major assaults on the No. 1 German target but fell six short of the record 79 lost in the RAF's Jan. 19 blow at Leipzig.

In the revived German opposition, after the beating Hitler's air forces have taken in recent American daylight blows, was seen as indication the Germans are undertaking a last-ditch stand for the preservation of what remains of their capital.

Soviets Attempt to Hurl Germans Beyond Carpathian Barrier

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, March 25.—Striking in its white-hot hour of victory, the Red army was reported today to be exploiting its broad Tarnopol break through in the southeastern corner of old Poland into a full-scale smash to fling the Germans back past Czernowitz to the Carpathian barrier.

Pravada said the mighty thrust between Tranopol and Proskurov was gaining momentum.

While Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's Tarnopol drive cut the Tarnopol-Lwow railway and knifed closer to the Lwow-Czernowitz trunk line, capture of Byeltsi, traffic control point for northern Moldavia, appeared to be a matter of hours, front dispatches said. Its fall would give the Russians virtual control of a 200-mile long stretch of the eastern bank of the Dniester river.

Many Germans Slain

Zaleschiki, 26 miles north of Czernowitz, Rumanian rail junction controlling lines into the Balkan states, was captured in a four-day 62-mile thrust below Tarnopol. The advance carried the Russians to within 60 miles of the old Czechoslovakian border and five miles from the former Rumanian province of Bucovina.

Moscow said 20,000 Germans were

Leetonia Marine Survives Jap Attack, Kills Few of Enemy

CAPE GLOUSTER, NEW BRITAIN — (Delayed) — Trapped on a narrow ledge by a numerically superior Japanese force, while on a combat patrol in the Cape Gloucester area, two Marines—Pfc. Robert L. Weekly, of Leetonia, O., and Edwin L. Cummings, of Sherburne, N. Y., withstood enemy fire for more than an hour without suffering so much as a scratch.

"The Japs finally pulled out," said Pfc. Weekly, 25-year-old former coal-miner. "But I don't know what made them do it. They had us in a tough spot."

Members of a squad assigned to work as advance scouts for the main body of the patrol, the two Marines were operating several hundred yards ahead of their comrades. They were making their way across a narrow ledge flanked by deep gorges when Pfc. Weekly, the lead man, spotted the Japs and opened fire.

The Japs cut loose with a machine gun and rifles, and in the ensuing battle the Marines were forced to take cover. For more than an hour Japanese bullets whistled over their heads.

MANPOWER REDISTRIBUTION

Transfer of air force personnel to army ground forces may help clear up misunderstanding of the manpower problem.

In prosecution of America's part in the war the constant problem has been equitable distribution of both military and civilian manpower. Solutions have taken different forms at different times and under different circumstances.

The newly realized circumstance in the military phase of the problem is an acute shortage of combat troops. Officers, technicians and specialists have been organized and trained in adequate numbers. Thus, there are enough aviators, and the surplus can be shifted to ground forces.

In the civilian phase of the problem, it is feasible to make available a larger number of young men for military service as the result of a production rate which has been overhauling military demands. While manpower shortages exist in specific fields of production, the total manpower theoretically available is sufficiently large to justify a considerable shifting of younger civilian employes into military activity. At the same time, military manpower, itself, is being shifted. It is all concerned with the ultimate goal of getting an adequate number of men into the places where they will be most useful in the climactic war effort of 1944.

Still to be solved when this problem is out of the way will be the subsequent problem of distributing manpower for the climactic effort against Japan and the reconversion to peacetime production expected to begin at the same time. Such problems are inevitable, yet as they arise, the New Deal credo of endless emergency calls for treating them not as wartime routine but sudden surprises.

NO MAGIC IN CAPITAL

Chairman Emory S. Land, explaining maritime commission policy in giving shipbuilders monetary rewards for efficiency, has told a congressional subcommittee that there should be some percentage on brains as well as capital.

In wartime, with the whole nation acutely aware of the importance of shipbuilding, this is not a startling point of view. Even though a shipbuilder may have only a nominal capital investment, if he can assemble labor, materials and skill and blend them quickly into ships that will pass inspection for urgent use in an emergency he is entitled, money-wise, to something besides a fixed return on the money he may have invested. Or to put it another way, ships are worth a great deal more to the maritime commission than a fixed return on a certain capital investment. There is no magic in capital.

Chairman Land's view is not orthodox. It is not the view of other federal officials who have been fighting some of the brisker skirmishes in the battle of renegotiation. It will not be the view of the postwar investigators who, in due time, will argue just as cynically as they did after World war I that what men and organizations produced wasn't important; that the only important thing was the money which changed hands.

It might save confusion if the words of the official chiefly responsible for obtaining ships to avert America's defeat were inscribed now on the walls of congressional committee rooms to remind future investigators that in wartime the question isn't always "How much?" but more frequently "How?"

THE FIGHT FOR TRUTH

Incorporation of the Raymond Clapper Memorial Award association, to promote the ideals of the great American newspaperman who was killed recently in an airplane accident in the Pacific, is a forward step in the fourth estate's fight for truth.

Raymond Clapper's high ideals in his practice of journalism will be upheld and made more attractive, it is believed, by awarding a medal each year to the Washington reporter whose work most closely approximates those ideals. The association will be controlled wholly by working newspapermen; its funds are being raised by contributions from newspapermen, newspapers and anyone else who, realizing the vital importance of good journalistic practice, wants to participate in this means of advancement.

The ultimate guarantee of a free press is the people's confidence in its operation. That confidence is the product of all the good work, the conscientious effort and high ethics which go into newspapers; it is undermined most seriously by the failures to live up to high ideals. As in most things, the failures always are known and proclaimed. It is right that the bad impressions they cause should be offset by such good impressions as newspapermen striving to equal the integrity, courage, tireless effort and tempered writing of a man whom newspapermen, themselves, admired. There could be no finger tribute to Raymond Clapper.

GARDENING FOR THE DURATION

Indications in a Gallup poll survey that home gardening this summer may slump from last year's record are not conclusive, but they suggest the need for second thought on the part of potential gardeners who are wavering in their decision.

Gardening by persons with the land and time is not optional; it is clearly a detail of their wartime duty. The arguments in its favor are unassailable, as any gardener will be glad to demonstrate—and they are only partly concerned with the need for maximum food production.

Probably the most compelling reason for home gardening under present circumstances is the selfish one of family economy. For the expenditure of a few dollars for a small garden and enough effort to plant it and keep it in shape, any family can expect a substantial return in food budget savings.

This is an aspect of gardening that has been neglected, especially in discussions of living costs during the war. While it can have no weight with those who merely argue that costs are rising and nothing can be done about it, the fact is that last summer and again this summer millions of families in the United States will do something about it with a spade, a few packets of seed and a hoe.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, March 26

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of the sudden and wholly unforseen precipitation of events that may have far-reaching effects on the future its destiny and fortunes. This occurrence should be handled with cleverness originality and ingenuity and should be decisively exploited but without argument, impulsiveness or other conduct likely to incite antagonism from those in authority or influence. Change, travel, romance are forecast but be prudent.

Birthday Indications

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an exciting and unpredictable turn of affairs which may be manipulated with splendid promise of progress, adventure and future gratification. Energy, ingenuity, exceptional skill or originality may secure this surprising opportunity but emotionalism impetuosity or discussion may challenge higher ups to antagonism in affectional matters there is also need for prudence and discretion.

A child born on this day may have exceptional gifts or creative talents in inventive scientific literary or other lines promising adventure and romance.

For Monday, March 27

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for an exceptional opportunity to settle important affairs of scope and daring adventure in which public groups or community interests may be involved. The vision intuition and intellectual processes are under high stimuli for achieving advanced and lucrative objectives. Ingenious ways and means may be expressed, but a tendency to squander forces financial or emotional with unguarded talk should be suppressed. Beware of imprudent intrigues in intimate affairs, social affectional domestic.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for some unusual opening for achieving expansive objectives or ambitions of exceptional scope and desirability in business career finances or largely, in the affectional relations. While keen mental abilities may stimulate worthy efforts and aims emotional or extravagant indulgences carried to excess may prove frustrating and regrettable. Be wise.

A child born on this day will have exceptional talents versatility and creative ability perhaps in art, literature, music, invention. A proclivity to emotional intrigues or personal extravagance may be its undoing.

"Racial" Exercises Still Healthier

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE VOICE of the turtle must be pretty loud and continuous in the land now even as far as the shores of Lake Michigan. A more reliable sign is the way the golfer looks at the weather reports. His clubs are bright and shiny and all he needs is to have the ground water get down so the links will dry.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

So above all lesser discussions, drowning out the bores of winter, such as the pokes about Bing Crosby's horses and Dorothy Lamour's sarong and Jimmy Durante's nose and Jack Benny's wig, Johnny's sickly sweet and fading chant—the gasoline shortage has kept me close to the radio and my friends find me somewhat embittered this spring—there rises now the eternal debate about what is the best kind of exercise. Are the bog muscle boys really healthiest? Should be supplement the labors of the links and court, the surf and the canoe, with dumbbells in the bedroom, setting-up exercises, pulleys, horizontal bars?

Natural Exercises

And that, as my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs said, when they asked him whether in the making of a mint julep the mint should be gently bruised in the bottom of the glass or left standing—that is a dangerously delicate question.

Speaking from the standpoint of the evolution of the human race, and who would open a question of this kind, indeed of any kind without speaking of that, to the brute of the Neolithic exercise was a grim necessity. Not for him the sissy pastime of trying to swat a little white ball as far as possible with totally inadequate instruments. He learned the value of exercise the hard way—from the sabre-toothed tiger and the cave bear.

Man's development was brought about by the so-called "Racial" exercises—running, walking, climbing, hoeing, spading, swimming and combat for self defence. And these are still the best exercises for the healthy development of the body. The muscular development that comes from the systematic use of every muscle in the body is not healthy. It may be a positive detriment to carry around those bulky muscles for which one has no use. The longevity of professional strong men is proverbially short.

Don't Overdo Exercise

Where are the Indian clubs of yesteryear? Aye, where are they? But let them go. The only thing they fitted you to do was to swing Indian clubs. Sandow looked wonderful under the lights, but a wiry little steel worker could throw him for a loop.

Exercise is healthy and makes you feel better all right, but don't overdo it. Especially as time drags on. Golf is well designed in this respect. I belong to a perfect golf club for a person of my years. Half the holes are on one side of the road, and in front of the club house one can arrange his play to cover either nine, six or three holes and arrive back at the club house. Long ago with my friends, I crossed the road. Now we stay on this side. And most days the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes are enough. So fades the career of one of the great golfers of all time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. A. B.:—What effect will vinegar, tomatoes, buttermilk and saccharin have on a stomach that is troubled with acidity?

Answer:—The rule about foods for those with acid indigestion is to avoid the 3 S's—"sweet, sour and spiced" foods. All of the foods you list are in that class. Experience over and over shows that vinegar and tomatoes stir up the stomach acidity. Buttermilk, while sour, sometimes is tolerated. Saccharin, while technically sweet is taken in such small quantities that it does not do as much harm as, for instance, candy.

H. M.:—Is it harmful to take a few simple exercises daily having a small rupture?

Answer: No, if the exercises are judiciously selected so as not to put a strain on the abdomen.

J. C.: — Can a doctor tell if there's a small growth in the vocal box without an x-ray? Is it a bad thing to have?

Answer: An x-ray does not help in revealing a growth on the vocal cords, but examination with a laryngscope is nearly always final. There are several kinds of growths that occur on the vocal cords, but none of them are exactly a good thing to have.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

STRUTHERS YOUNGSTOWN

THE RED CARNATION by BURTON STEVENSON

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

"Wife with him?" Tony Bigelow asked Detective Duffy.

"So the building superintendent said. I'll check it."

"Might as well be certain they're both away."

"All right," Duffy agreed. "I got a list of the other tenants — here it is. They all seem fairly respectable."

Tony ran through the names and recognized some of them—a vice-president of the Bankers Trust; the broker who had managed to get control of the Monongehela Corporation on a shoestring; the minister of a fashionable Fifth Avenue church; the junior partner of a well-known publishing house; even a columnist—a politico-sociological one—which is the kind that really pulls down the money because they don't have to do any leg work, and can spend all their spare time on lucrative lecture platforms.

"Who is this Arcadius Bellini who has the apartment next to McKibben's on the sixth floor?" Tony asked. "That's a queer name."

"He's just another nut," chuckled Duffy. "I went to see him. An old guy in skullcap and velvet dressing gown, white whiskers, and eyebrows like John L. Lewis. He's a scientist of some sort and also a literary gent. He thinks there has never been any writer since Shakespeare. He says Hamlet was nuts, and that Othello had a complex because he was black. You ought to go in and see him some day. You'd find his daughter worth looking at. He keeps her dressed up like—maybe it's Juliet."

"Could he tell you anything?"

"Nothing except about Shakespeare. He had never even heard of McKibben. It's a good thing "Mack" didn't lamp the girl, or he'd have broken down the door.

"I'll remember to stop in the next time I'm out calling," said Tony. But he sounds inoffensive. I'll make a copy of the list, if you don't mind."

"You can keep that one," said Duffy. "I've got a duplicate. And here's that letter you got," he added, passing it over. "Our expert says it was written on a No. 6 Underwood, which has never been used for heavy work, since the type is very little worn, although the machine must be four or five years old. It would be easy to identify for the lowercase 'a' is a little out of line, and there is a nick in the tail of the 'g'."

"What about the writer?"

"He is fairly accustomed to using a typewriter, but not a trained typist. Our expert says he is probably a professional men of some sort—one who types his own reports. Maybe a lawyer or a doctor."

"Why not an author?"

"The type isn't worn enough."

"Why not a woman?"

"Our expert says the way it's written is distinctly masculine, though it has certain feminine traits, too."

"We seem to be getting warm.," remarked Tony, with a smile. "What we're looking for is a lawyer or a doctor who knew McKibben, who has class three blood, and certain feminine traits, who knows how to use a typewriter but not very well, and who owns a No. 6 Underwood with elite type, the 'a' out of line and the tail of the 'g' nicked. If you can find anybody with these characteristics who also had a grudge against McKibben, you've got your man."

"Well, have you heard anything from McKibben's ex-wife?"

"Not a peep. Can't say I blame her."

"What relatives did he have?"

"None that we've been able to discover. He comes from somewhere in Virginia."

"His ex-wife might know."

"She sailed for Europe yesterday—hopped a boat as soon as she heard McKibben was dead. I'm putting some heat on her husband."

"What are you going to do with the body?"

putting some C7h - e-r? Gtadtfl

"It will keep awhile," answered Duffy grimly.

"Did you see Lily Edgerton?"

"Sure. But we haven't got her letters. We haven't found any letters yet. McKibben probably kept them in his safe."

"You haven't opened it?"

"No, but I'm going from here to do it."

"I'm inclined to think you'll find something interesting."

"The trouble with this case is that there are too many things that are interesting," said Duffy. "This Edgerton dame says he wasn't above trying blackmail when he found himself in a tight place, and I don't know any better way to invite assassination."

"What did he do with his money?" Tony asked.

Duffy grinned. "What a lot of other people did—tried to support the market when it was flopping. Wouldn't believe there could be a depression. Well, I've got to be getting along."

"Maybe I'll run down after a while and see what's in that safe."

"Okay," said Duffy as he left the room.

Clarence came in as soon as he had closed the outer door after the detective. "A messenger brought this just now, suh," he said, and handed Tony a long envelope. It was from the office, and he found that it contained a letter from Garrity:

> Dear Tony:
> It's impossible to get a full list of McKibben's customers until after the safe is opened, as all his books are in there. But I managed to get the names and addresses of some of the heaviest losers from his bookkeeper and am sending them along. I'll shoot you a complete list as soon as I get it. This one looks like an excerpt from the Social Register.
> Garrity.

Enclosed was another sheet of paper with six names: Mrs.. Thomas Rolfe, H. R. Condit, Dr. Jerome Metcalf, Lawrence Terry, Miss Susan Tremaine, James W. Somerset; and the addresses ranged from Great Neck and Westchester, to upper Fifth Avenue. Tony knew something about the owners of all the names except one: Lawrence Terry, and his address was Westchester Avenue, in Mount Vernon.

Finally Tony put the list to one side and finished his mail. Then he called a taxi, and headed downtown.

McKibben's office was on the sixth floor of a very sedate Wall Street building, and when he entered he found the outside room filled with anxious-looking people, two policemen keeping them in order. Tony had seen such crowds before—outside the Bank of the United States, when it suddenly closed its doors—in brokers' offices and when the market was nose-diving.....

He crossed the room to the policeman in front of the inner door, gave him his card, and asked him to take it to Lieutenant Duffy. The policeman was back in a moment and motioned him inside.

Tony proceeded him across the inner office, where four or five people were talking gloomily among themselves—the office staff, evidently—to a door on the farther side marked Private.

"Hello, Tony," said Duffy, who was seated at a desk inside, watching a man who was slowly turning the combination of a big safe, one ear tight against it. "Sit down. We couldn't find the combination anywhere—nobody knew it except McKibben, apparently—so we had to bring down our expert. He says he thinks he can get it."

The columnist looked about the office. It was large and luxuriously furnished in the best stockbroker tradition—a great, polished desk with a swing chair back of it, a heavy rug on the floor, half a dozen heavily padded chairs, an imposing row of file cases along one well. On the desk was a battery of telephones, and beside it was a dictograph, with a transcriber attachment. The whole place breathed affluence, security, confidence.

At that moment the man at the safe pushed down the lever and swung open the door.

"Great work, Bob!" Duffy commended, and looked into the safe. "I'm afraid that hunch of yours didn't work this time, Tony," he added. "I don't see much in here."

There was a pile of ledgers and account books in one corner, but the shelves above them were empty, except for a litter of bank books and memoranda. In one drawer were perhaps a dozen packets of letters neatly tied up and carefully docketed. Duffy chuckled as he looked at them.

"These must be the billets-doux," he said. "But I don't see any securities, unless they're in here," and he indicated an inner locked compartment. "I've got McKibben's keys," and he took a bunch out of his pocket and tried one after another. "Here we are," and he pulled the little door open

There was nothing in the compartment except a small wax cylinder.

"What's this?" he murmured, taking it out and looking at it.

"Maybe my hunch is going to jell after all," said Tony. "That's a dictograph cylinder."

"Of course. But why should he keep it in there?"

"Maybe it's a contract of some sort....."

"You can't make a contract on a dictograph cylinder."

"Suppose we try it out," and Tony turned to the transcriber and opened it. "Slide it on."

The detective did so with some difficulty, for it did not fit exactly. Tony closed the machine and turned on the switch.

Courtroom Scene As Movie Comedian Goes On Trial On Mann Act Charge

LAST OF SERIES
By The Associated Press

What are the post-war market prospects for Ohio industries and what will the price tags say?

If the score or so firms surveyed know what they're talking about, the markets are going to be good but the prices are going to be high. Some mentioned specific figures, like 20 per cent higher than pre-war. One said simply, "abnormally high." A few said lower.

Predictions of lower prices were conditional—with an "if" or "unless" attached. The "if'" and "unlesses" were summed up by R. E. Carpenter, executive vice president of Spicer Mfg. Co., of Toledo:

"I do not know what government controls will be exerted over labor rates and material prices, but, if the old and reliable law of 'supply and demand' is allowed to function, I should expect that eventually costs will be reduced from present levels."

J. K. Owen of the market research department of National Cash Register at Dayton, said:

"There seems to be a general feeling that prices will be lower after the war, although no very definite means by which these lower prices are to be secured have been suggested. We really have no comment on this point. Lower prices are desirable if it is possible to obtain them."

Rubber Situation Uncertain

"Because of the uncertainty of the rubber situation after the war," commented an official of General Tire & Rubber Co., "it is difficult to predict price structure. It is our opinion that it will be a slightly higher price immediately after the war, but we are not sure how long this will continue. The chances are that there will be so much rubber available that rubber prices will drop sharply, and this should be reflected in tire prices within a year after the war's end."

Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. of Toledo expects expanding markets for products in which its own specialty "will be incorporated as a component part," such as heating, air conditioning, cold storage, quick freezing, home-building, fireproofing, etc., and comments:

"Unit costs drop when markets are expanded and when savings in production efficiencies can be made through volume production. . . . We look forward to . . . continued price reductions as manufacturing processes are further improved."

In contrast, Dayton's Frigidaire says:

"If present trends, both labor- and material-wise, continue, even under a somewhat controlled basis, we would estimate that our post-war merchandise prices would be increased about 25 per cent."

International Harvester:

"The post-war prices of motor trucks undoubtedly will reflect the post-war price levels. The costs of production and distribution in the immediate post-war period undoubtedly will be substantially higher than they were pre-war; as to much higher we can not guess."

Reasonable Prices

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. at Mansfield:

"We believe that prices will be higher . . . because of increased labor rates and possible higher costs for materials. The heavy demand for peace-time goods will make it possible to expand mass production techniques and this will tend to keep prices within reason, but we fear that the above two factors will create higher prices in the post-war era. . . ."

D. H. Kelly, executive vice president of Electric Auto-Lite Co. at Toledo:

"Due to increased labor costs, the price structure will be considerably higher after the war. . . ."

Taylorcraft Aviation Corp. at Alliance:

"This (price) question is difficult to answer, not knowing in which direction labor and material costs are bound. . . . From present indications our prices will be somewhat higher in the early post-war period. . . . Eventually, we look for lower prices for airplanes."

Sees High Figures

Bond Houser, president of Troy Sunshade Co.:

"The cost of our products will be abnormally high immediately after the war. . . . This will apply whether there is much unemployment throughout the country during the period reconversion. These high prices . . . will have to prevail in the first spurt of business activity, due to the firm hold which labor has over the economies of production. . . . There is no possibility of future lower prices without some cataclysmic type of business recession during which labor can be forced to release its hold on the economies. In my own estimated, I can not image such a thing as happening."

George L. Draffan, executive vice dent of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks and of the Railway Labor Executives' association, took issue with the thought that labor costs would be a long-term determining factor in ultimate prices.

Labor Situation

"The general objective of labor, of course," he said, "is to maintain and improve its standards, but this does not necessarily increase the price of a product.

"New techniques, new machines, and new materials are constantly coming along to increase production and decrease prices. The labor charge in products is constantly being reduced. One historic instance was when Henry Ford established the $5 day and at the same time reduced the price of his automobile.

"Of course, in the period immediately following the war, there undoubtedly will be considerable confusion and probably an inflated standard of living. But to argue that this will continue after we get into the full swing of peace-time production is contrary to our whole industrial history and experience.

"Labor is entitled to a decent wage, and on the other hand, capital is entitled to a fair return. Both of these are possible without making prices so high as to retard consumption. Labor, after all, is just as interested in seeing goods bought as capital."

president of Ohio Brass Co., at Mansfield:

"Assuming present wage and material price levels, the prices of our standard materials should be from 10 to 20 per cent higher than they are."

Henry Winogrond, general manager of Mersman Bros. Corp., table manufacturer of Celina:

"Price structures will be approximately 20 per cent higher than the pre-war period."

However, one of Ohio's top labor leaders, George M. Harrison, president is a very important letter in this war.

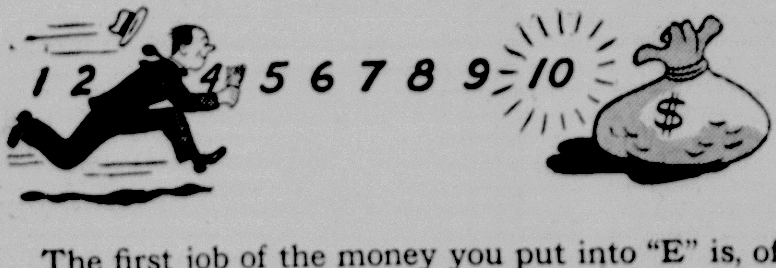
It's the name of the War Bonds you buy—"War Savings Bond Series E."

As you know, a Series E Bond will work for you for ten full years, piling up interest all that time, till finally you'll get four dollars back for every three you put up. Pretty nice.



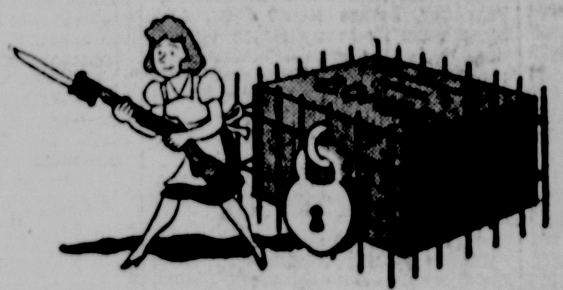
The first job of the money you put into "E" is, of course, to help finance the war. But it also gives you a wonderful way to save money.

And when the war is over, that money you now put away can do another job, can help America swing over from war to peace.

There'll come a day when you'll bless these Bonds—when they may help you over a tough spot.

That's why you should make up your mind to hang on to every Bond you buy. You can, of course, cash in your Bonds any time after you've held them for 60 days. You get all your money back, and, after one year, all your money plus interest.

But when you cash in a Bond, you end its life before its full job is done. You don't give it its chance to help you and the country in the years that lie ahead.



You kill off its $4-for-every-$3 earning power.

All of which it's good to remember when you might be tempted to cash in some of your War Bonds. They are yours, to do what you want with.

ABC

But . . . it's ABC sense that . . .

They'll do the best job for you and for America if you let them reach the full flower of maturity!

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, March 25—Overseas sports news report:

ENGLAND

Sergt. Peter Kane, former world flyweight champion, has been forbidden to box while in the R. A. F. and will have to cancel his June bout with Ronnie Clayton for the British bantamweight crown . . . The ban was imposed after a service medical report on the condition of Kane's eyes . . . Major Frank Buckley, who is reputed to have discovered and sold more major British soccer stars than any other man (a cockney Connie Mack, eh?) foresees crowds of 100,000 to 150,000 for post-war soccer games and each club operating its own airliner to international matches.

PACIFIC AREA

Ens. Dick Humbert, the Philadelphia Eagles end, writes Coach Greasy Neale that he is on a sub chaser, which is "something like a ping-pong ball bouncing down a cobblestone street." . . . Lieut. Roland (Kickapoo) Logan, former Red Sox and West Point trainer, reports that Gene Tunney, Jim Crowley, Bobby Feller, Fred Apostoli, and Footballers Marshall Duffield (Southern Cal.) and Jim Poole (Miss. State and Giants) have visited his fleet recreation center at various times . . . Marine ring fans in the Solomons think Pfc. Dale (Tiny) Fawns, 20-year-old Kentuckian, is something extra-special as a heavyweight boxing prospect. He's six feet five, weighs 245 and "moves with unbelievable speed and hits like a triphammer."

PERSIAN GULF COMMAND

Sergt. Allen La Combe of New Orleans also reports a fine heavyweight prospect, 20-year-old Harold Augusta of St. Louis, Augusta, P.G.C., Middle-East and Anglo-American 165-pound champ who now scales 192 and is still growing. He's clever and a hard hitter . . . La Combe has 42 boxes training daily, about 20 doing part-time work, not counting 40 or 50 Persian kids "who are always around crying to box." . . . "I do not know how we are going to train when this heat of about 150 to 160 hits us soon," Allen adds, "but we will find a way." . . . A "Yank" report on the Anglo-American bouts at Cairo in February, before 12,000 fans, says there were as many fights outside the ring as in it . . . Incidentally, one of the referees there was Capt. Joseph Kiddie . . . Wonder if he de divey?

ICELAND

G. I. boxing, with British service men frequently taking part, has shared interest with basketball in Andrews field house during the far northern winter nights . . . Both the championship cage team, coached by Lieut. Jerom B. Robinson, and the leading boxers were rewarded with trips to Britain . . . And Lieut. Dave Zinkoff, the old Philadelphia sports announcer, says that the commanding officer, Maj. Gen. William S. Key, "holds his ringside seat come hell or high water or aurora borealis."

OVER EUROPE

The sporting news carries this yarn about Lieut. Alfred Pezzella, a bombardier and obviously a baseball fan . . . While his B-24 was flying over enemy territory, a piece of flak whizzed through the nose of the plane missing Pezzella by a few inches . . . The lieutenant looked up momentarily from his bombsight and remarked: "Ball one, low and inside."

ZIONS SPLIT WITH SEWICKLEY CAGERS

Susce May Catch For Indians

Veteran Coach and Receiver Peps Up Cleveland Rookies

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Ten minutes after a visitor arrives in this likeable college town, he reaches the hotel headquarters of the Cleveland Indians.

From then on, there are only two topics in the lobby, up in the rooms, or on the big Purdue campus: George Susce and Purdue university.

The Purdue drum beating is expected, for this is the stamping grounds of the Boilermakers—and the townsfolk are more than rabid supporters of Purdue teams. Woe be to those who do not agree.

But Susce? How does that 200 pounder rate so much conversation? The Tribe's roster lists the "Good Kid" as a coach.

Tireless Worker

Ah yes, a coach he is, and a good one, but, he is also the hardest working, liveliest, and one of the best conditioned athletes here.

And in case you don't recall the name, said Mr. Susce was once a catcher.

To get the complete picture, the scene must shift to Manager Lou Boudreau who says:

"I have only two worries, as far as I can see now, a regular second baseman and a No. 1 catcher."

Well, Susce is willing to lift one worry off his master's shoulders.

"I'm ready to catch any time Lou wants me," smiles big George. "We've got a winning team here this year and if I can help in any way I'll do it."

Boudreau admits he may be forced to use Susce at the start of the season:

"If we start without Buddy Rosar, Susce will be our first catcher. He knows the hitters, and how to handle the pitchers. That will give me a chance to break in Jim McDonnell.

INDIANS
Pitching—Fair.
Catching—Problematical
Infield—Good
Outfield—Average
Hitting—Light
Finish—Fifth or Sixth

"McDonnell is a good prospect behind the bat, but he's got to take it slow at first."

He doesn't appear rugged enough to work too much. He weights 165 pounds. But, with Susce starting the season, and "catching quite a few games," as Boudreau puts it, Jim would be handy to have around.

The only other catcher in camp is Russ Lyon, 28-year-old 230-pounder from East Point, Ga.

You would never know that Susce is a coach and 33 years old, the way he cavorts around the Purdue field house or on the diamond.

The fellow has more pep than many of the youngsters. He leads the team in calisthenics, is the first one in the pepper games, does more than half of the receiving, and is still the liveliest player under the showers.

Some of the boys thought they would show up George, so they started to do splits and whatnots as they washed away the dirt.

George joined in the fun and even the youngsters had to admit that the "Good Kid" was too much for them when it comes to exercises.

A lot of fans think of George as a major leaguer. True, he has been in the big time since 1939, but he only caught 31 games for the Pirates. The Phillies gave him a trial in 1928.

He played in 12 different minor leagues, though, and has a lifetime batting record of .228. Not much for a catcher, but the way he is clouting that pill this year, he could very well threaten the .300 clouters. Keep an eye on Susce.

Truck Driver Tells How He Landed In 'Pea Patch'

SALEM, Ore.—A certain Oregon truck driver reported his version of an accident to the state motor vehicle accident bureau:

"Well, it was just about daybreak. I had the old corn popper in the whistle nearly winding about 35 when I saw this old hayshaker coming across the side road.

"I gave him the horn and pinched the air a couple of times, but he stopped for the highway, so I kicked it in direct and stuck my foot into the carbureter.

"I was just getting wound up again when I hit the intersection, and this lub pulled out on me. I cut for the barn and made it around him all right, but I couldn't bring her back, and the next thing I knew I was out in the pea patch, plowing corn."

Navy Gets Outfielder

SAMPSON, N. Y.—Don Manno of Williamsport, Pa., outfielder for Hartford, Conn., in the Eastern league and Indianapolis in the American association last season, will be a member of Sampson's Naval training station nine this spring. In 1940, Manno made his debut with the Boston Braves with a homer against Brooklyn with the bases loaded.

Today's The Day For Ohio's Basketball World Series

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, March 25.—This is the day for Ohio's own world series of basketball.

Seven teams, seeking their first state High school championship, and one squad, striving to become a two-time winner, were pronounced ready, willing and able for a double-barreled series of games which will be climaxed shortly after 9 o'clock (Central War time) tonight with the crowning of the 1944 Class A and B title-holders.

The eight survivors, four in each class, are all that remain of nearly 1,200 teams which began tournament competition a month ago. The 1943 champions—Newark in Class A and Yorkville in Class B—are among those who could only sit on the sidelines and watch today as their successors are determined.

Newark was beaten last week in the regionals. Yorkville went out early, being eliminated in its county tournament.

The program in Class A today called for Toledo Woodward (20 games won and two lost) to meet Canton Lehman (20 won and four lost) at 1 p. m. in Columbus auditorium. At 2:15, Martins Ferry (26 won and none lost) will tangle with Middletown (22 won and one lost).

Championship games in both divisions will begin at 8 p. m.

Games On Radio

Several radio stations scheduled broadcasts so stay-at-homes could listen in on the championship battles.

All contenders except Worthington put in an appearance yesterday. After brief workouts, the boys were ordered by their coaches to "take it easy" and they were among the early-to-bed persons in Columbus last night.

Worthington waited until today to make the short trip into Columbus. The Cardinals arrived on Thursday, however, for a brief whirl on the Ohio State gym floor, where the Class B tourney will be held.

Martins Ferry is the only contender in either division that ever won a state title. The Ferrians copped the Class A crown in 1941 and they're being burdened today with the role of slight favorite. Their undefeated record, plus an average of 65 points a game, caused them to be listed as the team to beat.

That bulging point average, however, was due to receive a severe test today since Middletown has allowed its 23 foes an average of only 21 points a game.

One of the other points of interest in the Class A event was Canton Lehman's determination to show the fan's there's nothing to that supposed 13 jinx. This is the 13th time since 1923 that Canton has had a team in the final state tournament and not one of them ever won the title.

None of the Class B finalists ever has won a state crown, but Akron Ellet will be out to take a state championship to its home city for the fifth time. North and West in Class A and St. Mary's in Class B have been previous Akron winners.

GIL DODDS FAILS TWO-MILE RECORD

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND, March 25. — Gil Dodds still prefers his courtship with the two-mile run even though he failed by a wide margin in his assault on Greg Rice's indoor record at the Knights of Columbus games last night.

"I still feel it's my natural distance," the Boston divinity student remarked wearily after he finished 14.3 seconds beyond the 8:51 mark which the former Notre Dame star set in the same meet last year.

"I had very little time to train for the extra distance and I just got tired, that's all," he explained.

Gil twice lowered the world's indoor mile record the past two weekends but it was his first effort in two years over the longer route.

Although he obviously was disappointed with his showing, the plank pounding parson finished a lap and a half ahead of Jim Rafferty of the New York A. C. and lapped the field with eight circuits to go.

The performance was Dodds' farewell appearance of the winter season. He will occupy his father's pulpit at Smithville, O., this Sunday.

Nazi Parachutists Defending Cassino

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 25.—Tough German parachutists, ordered by their commander Lt. Gen. Richard Heindrick to cling to Cassino at all costs and throw the Allies out if possible, are holding New Zealand troops in tight confines in the southern part of the town.

The Germans have been able to get three more tanks into the lobby of the Continental hotel and apparently are reinforcing their troops through secret tunnels.

One tunnel was said to extend more than 1,000 yards from the abbey atop Monastery hill to the vicinity of Castle hill which the Germans have been trying to take from New Zealand troops of the Fifth army.

German forces ringing the Allied Anzio beachhead meanwhile stabbed tentatively at Allied lines with tanks. Two tanks were reported knocked out east of Carroceto, 21 miles below Rome. Five others were unofficially reported destroyed west of Cisterna.

Allied heavy bombers attacked rail yards at Rimini and Ancona yesterday while medium bombers Astruck at the port of Leghorn and rail facilities at rvieto, Sulmona and Fano, Allied headquarters announced.

Eleven Allied planes failed to return from the day's operations as against 20 German craft destroyed over the Cassino area.

MEN UNDER 26

mittee gets the permanent machinery moving.

Under the interim plan, government "claimant" agencies, such as Office of Defense Transportation for transportation, War Production board for factories, and so on, will indorse requests for deferments, although state directors are not compelled to accept them.

Looking toward the permanent procedure, the "claimant" agencies will determine the activities and plants which should have special consideration, and submit this information to the inter-agency committee by Monday, March 27.

The committee will then designate key activities and establish quotas for various activities and plants. The "claimant" agencies will then recommend to state draft directors individuals for deferment.

The War Manpower commission, which is setting up the new committee with Paul V. McNutt at its head, has emerged with prestige somewhat increased. WMC and selective service insisted provisions be made for recommending deferments not only in munitions plants but in programs such as transportation and coal mining. The Army, Navy and War Production board (WPB) agreed to this yesterday.

But no agency pretends that a large number of men under 26—except for farm workers, protected by law—will get deferments.

Even the under-26 farm workers are subject to intensified review under the new regulations.

killed and 3,500 captured in the four-day offensive by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukrainian army, boosting to nearly 250,000 the Nazi dead and captured in the Ukraine campaign.

Kamenka was seized by Red army troops driving southwest from Gaivorn. The combined operation split remnants of enemy units between that river town and Zaleschchiki into isolated pockets, front dispatches said.

Zhukov's smash below Tarnopol virtually isolated German garrisons there and in Proskurov.

Other units of Zhukov's army cut the Lwow-Tarnopol railway, northwest of Tarnopol.

FEAR 14 ARE DEAD IN MINE EXPLOSION

(By Associated Press)

SHINNSTON, W. Va., March 25.—Fourteen men who entered the recently-opened Katherine No. 4 coal mine to fight a fire were believed killed by a terrific blast which shattered part of the working early today.

Rescue work was at a standstill while workmen restored the damaged ventilating system, but company officials and West Virginia mines department spokesmen said "there is every reason to believe" the trapped men were dead.

The Katherine Coal company, which opened its fourth operation in the Clarksburg field less than six months ago, issued a casualty list of 14 known to have been inside when the blast occurred.

State Mines Chief Jesse Redyard, before leaving Charleston for the scene, said he was informed the fire started from a machine cable and quickly ignited the wall of coal. There was no way of determining whether the fire was still burning.

Ohio Chaplain Wins Army Merit Award

(By Associated Press)

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—(Delayed)—Daily trips to the front lines to visit the wounded and bury the dead during the battle for New Georgia in the South Pacific brought the award of the Legion of Merit to Chaplain Robert A. Uphoff of West Salem, O.

The award was made by Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding U. S. army forces in the South Pacific, March 7, "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services in the South Pacific from Nov. 19, 1942, to Jan. 26, 1944."

At New Georgia the chaplain was a bulwark of strength to the men engaged in jungle warfare, the citation states, while his activities earlier at Fiji and at Guadalcanal are also praised.

Two Ohioans, Staff Sgt. John E. Lemon of Kent and Sgt. Kenneth L. Palmer of Uniontown, were awarded Silver Stars March 7 for gallantry in action.

Lemon, a member of the 13th AAF, shot down one plane and damaged another after being wounded during a bombing raid over Rabaul, New Britain, last Jan. 1.

Palmber assisted in saving a patrol on New Georgia last Aug. 21. "As forward scout of a combat patrol," the citation reads, "he led the group to within 100 feet of an enemy strongpoint and then, when intense fire forced a retreat, ignored his own safety to commence a vigorous and effective return of fire which not only permitted an orderly withdrawal but also stopped a Japanese attack against the outnumbered patrol."

industrial area and transmit it to Nazi Germany.

Dr. Fred William Thomas, a Detroit obstetrician and only one of the group of eight to stand trial, was convicted and sentenced a fortnight ago to 16 years imprisonment.

Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, a merchant seaman, was declared mentally incompetent as he was about to go to trial and charges against him were dismissed. Subsequently a probate court jury found him sane.

Besides the eight arrested here, 16 others were named in indictments as co-conspirators but not defendants. Most of them, the FBI said, maintained addresses in Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal and Hungary to receive information for transmission to Germany. Others were Axis agents said by the FBI to have tutored the Detroit group in spy work.

Jinx Falkenburg, Leslie Brooks, Jeff Donnell, Lynn Merrick, Nina Foch, Marcia Mae Jones, Evelyn Keyes, Anita Louise and Shirley Mills have title roles in "Nine Girls," billed at the State Wednesday only.

JOAN'S LETTER

men as Giesler read: "Thank you, Charles, for letting me know you—you, the greatest genius and artist living. You never really knew of the countless sleepless nights and millions of unsent letters. You'd laugh at them, but they were pretty real to me. I know you're not interested in my plans, but I'd like to tell you, anyway. I'm going back to New York to get married (there really is a boy who wants to marry me)."

There was a hush in the courtroom as Giesler read, from one letter, this fervent passage:

"In this whole stupid mess there are only two things that remained perfect. I never doubted for one second that I was to be Bridget (the role she presumably was to have had in a Chaplin picture.

"I thought that loving you and knowing that you never wanted or would never allow me to become a part of your life was torture, but now that I know I am not to be Bridget, my cup is full. I must admit, though, that after the way I've acted, it's the only thing you could do. ......"

Previously, Joan had testified she had sexual relations with Chaplin in his New York apartment. She said she returned to Los Angeles alone and later accompanied him to a night spot.

Giesler drew from her the admission she went to Oklahoma City for a week and, coming back to Los Angeles, registered here at a hotel under an assumed name.

man occupation. He said by this the Hungarians may hope to "regain the respect and friendship of free nations." Hungary is in a tight spot, but there's much fertile soil there for such seed.

One of the most interesting developments as we race towards Armageddon is the simultaneous reiteration of the broad Allied war aims by President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill. This presumably is in answer to the widespread call for clarification of "what we are fighting for." F. D. R. stated the case like this:

"The United Nations are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression can not exist; a world based upon freedom, equality and justice—a world in which all persons regardless of race, color or creed may live in peace, honor and dignity."

Churchill also declared that "the dark tyrannies shall be broken and battered down." Both statesmen renewed their promises that war guilty will be punished.

Pfc. Weekly and Cummings members of an assault unit that participated in the invasion of Cape Gloucester Dec. 26, were among the first to reach the air field when it was captured four days later.

Since then they have spent most of their time on the front lines on daily patrols in the mountainous jungle area.

Pfc. Weekly, a graduate of Cadiz High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Weekly, of Lisbon road, Leetonia. He enlisted Dec. 15, 1941. He has been overseas nearly two years. Last summer he sent his parents a captured Jap flag.

Pfc. Cummings, son of Mrs. Smith Cook, of Sherburne, enlisted Dec. 29, 1941.
